A fierce British voice, Slew was born in West London and spent his formative years in various parts of the capital, where he began making music after seeing his cousin spitting on Grime. Someone who never quite fit in, he later moved to Hertfordshire, where that became even more apparent. He always felt like he was on his own path growing up and spent his weekends back in London; raving, exposing himself to vivid new sounds, and broadening his horizons whilst sampling the best of the UK underground.

Slew has been featured in the Burberry Spring 2024 Campaign, released in November 2023. This campaign highlights UK talent, emphasizing their connection to London and the enduring impact of their roots in the city throughout their careers.
